SUBJECT : 2020 CALL FOR RESEARCH PAPERS ON LITERACY

DATE : August 7, 2020

In 2019, the Literacy Coordinating Council (LCC) conducted its annual National Literacy Conference (NLC) and had its first ever research-themed conference. One of the highlights of the said event was the presentation and exhibit of different research studies conducted by researchers all over the Philippines who were selected from among those who participated the call. It enabled literacy stakeholders, partners, and advocates to gain in-depth knowledge on the 21st century literacies and their alignment to Industry 4.0.

Relative to this, the LCC announces the 2020 Call for Research Papers on Literacy. The said activity is envisioned to boost research activities in the country by addressing and supporting the literacy needs of the communities amidst the various crisis that they currently face. The theme for this year's call is "Sustaining Community-based Literacy Programs in the Time of Crisis."

The said event aims to:

- a. align research according to the community's literacy needs in times of crisis;
- b. strengthen participation of stakeholders in literacy governance;
- c. understand and maximize the role of literacy in times of crisis;
- d. capacitate literacy educators and workers on online pedagogies, Alternative Delivery Modes (ADMs), and Alternative Learning System (ALS); and
- e. develop policy recommendations on literacy that can be effectively implemented during the times of crisis such as COVID-19 pandemic, volcanic eruptions, and other calamities.

This year, the LCC focuses on research which caters, through literacy interventions, to various community needs amidst any type of crisis. There will be an open call for research studies/papers relevant to literacy for possible policy recommendations. Interested researchers from the academe/educational institutions, community, civil society organizations, and non-profit groups may submit their research papers to LCC Secretariat through email address: lcc@deped.gov.ph on or before October 2, 2020 (Friday) with the subject: 2020 Call for Research Papers Region No.

In line with this, all regions are highly encouraged to submit as many entries as possible. The LCC Evaluation Committee will select the entries based on agreed criteria. The author of the selected research papers will be notified in November 2020. A total of eighty-five (85) researches shall be chosen across the country. The final list of winners shall be invited for the 2020 Virtual Research Symposium on Literacy, and will be awarded a cash prize each. The researches that will be chosen during the said activity will be featured online in the LCC website, Facebook Page, and will be considered in the development of LCC's Information, Education and Communication (IEC) materials on literacy.

Attached are the Guidelines for Submission of 2020 Call for Research Papers on Literacy, for your reference.
